Description

The SACS STRIDER 11 LIMO, also called Openback, is a Maxi Rib dedicated to comfort.

Characterized by a space hardly present on inflatable boats of this size, the living space, for example, immediately suggests that, on board the new Strider 11, relaxation is a duty, not just a pleasure.

Tall and sturdy, the backs of the U-shaped sofa embrace the cockpit and give a feeling of protection even to those who prefer to lie on the large solarium at the back, which materializes by lowering the central table, which can be covered with refined cushions in a closed cell.

While the maximum (almost 3.80m) lease at the rear results in an open-air lounge (equipped with a kitchen positioned behind the pilot's seat), the front section, on the other hand, houses a wide solarium, where the front tanning platform extends from the deckhouse to the winch without interruptions.

The deckhouse, designed in a curvilinear and dynamic manner according to the aesthetic standards of the automobile and ostensibly raised above the bridge allows to enjoy more space in height inside the cabin.

The steering console consists of an ergonomic double seat with stand-up cushions and a compact console, equipped with a large number of technological instruments. The T-Top, with no side supports seems to float above our heads, while beneath our feet, the solid teak deck stands out in all its elegant light,
